MEMORANDUM — CHIPS OF PASADENA

To: LAPD/LASO Intelligence Dtls.

Date: 7/14/71

From: Sgt. Gardner, Pasadena PD.

Re: CHIPS

Enclosed is latest info on Cooperative Highskool Independent Press Syndicate (They spell school with a "K" whenever they remember.)

CHIPS originated in Chicago, where it was known as the Chicago Independent High School Press Service, in March, 1969. The founder, John Schaller, moved to Houston, Texas in the summer of 1970. The first issue of CHIPS, FPS was published in September, 1970. FPS according to the publication officially stood for nothing but unofficially stood for "fuck public school". FPS #1 was entitled, SCREW YOUR SCHOOL, and listed a number of methods of disrupting school procedures, damaging school property, and various other injurious schemes.

On 12/11/70 CHIPS announced that they had moved to 3210 Grace St. N.W. Washington D.C. 338-6318. They also announced that they were to be funded and could lower their rates. (Stern Family Fund and Ford Foundation, not announced by CHIPS). They moved into the office of the Student Information Center which was a development of the U.S. Office of Education, Dept. of HE. They were later ousted for anti-government activities but then received funding from Philip M. Stern, Family Fund. The CENTER FOR COMMUNITY CHANGE 1000 Wisconsin Ave. Wash. DC. was used as a conduit to get monies to SIC as SIC had no tax exemption. Thus, CHIPS/FPS was able to obtain money funded to Center for Community Change, through Student Information Center.

The members, Highschool Underground Presses, numbered about 150 at that time. There has been a period of quiet, but in June, 1971 there is information to suggest a renewed effort by CHIPS to recruit members nationwide. Enclosed is a list of the members and subscribers.

Re:

FOIA(b) (6)

Originally, the member in the Pasadena Area was called DOUBLETHINK at 3365 Grayburn, Pasa. (Chapman Woods County). This address belongs to Margery Cream, a liberal attorney. No issues of Doublethink have been seen and it is believed that the publication never got off the ground.

The new CHIPS list indicates the Pasadena area member is KNIGHTS BANANA and gives PO Box 1104 Pasa. This box belongs to Kenneth Charles Jackson 11830 Deana #4 El Monte. 579-0976. Dr. Lic. [REDACTED] Authorized to receive mail are: HEADLINES PRESS (this is another name listed for Knight's Banana), Jack Nelson, (UNK), & Clearlight, a publishing house for the Peace Action Council.

Jackson is reportedly active in PAC and other movements.

Information from your files concerning Jackson and other persons mentioned would be appreciated.

J. Gardner

Gary Campbell & Ken Jackson are active in Peace Action Council.

Red Sun Tribe appears to be a San Gabriel Valley faction headed by these individuals.

MEMORANDUM—CITY OF PASADENA

To: LAPD/LASO Intelligence Dtls.

Date: 7/14/71

From: Sgt. Gardner, Pasadena PD.

Re: CHIPS

Enclosed is latest info on Cooperative Highskool Independent Press Syndicate. (They spell school with a "K" whenever they remember.)

CHIPS originated in Chicago, where it was known as the Chicago Independent High School Press Service, in March, 1969. The founder, John Schaller, moved to Houston, Texas in the summer of 1970. The first issue of CHIPS, FPS was published in September, 1970. FPS according to the publication officially stood for nothing but unofficially stood for "fuck public school". FPS #1 was entitled, SCREW YOUR SCHOOL, and listed a number of methods of disrupting school procedures, damaging school property, and various other injurious schemes.

On 12/11/70 CHIPS announced that they had moved to 3210 Grace St. N.W. Washington D.C. 338-6318. They also announced that they were to be funded and could lower their rates. (Stern Family Fund and Ford Foundation, not announced by CHIPS). They moved into the office of the Student Information Center which was a development of the U.S. Office of Education, Dept. of HEW. They were later ousted for anti-government activities but then received funding from Philip M. Stern, Family Fund. The CENTER FOR COMMUNITY CHANGE 1000 Wisconsin Ave. Wash. DC. was used as a conduit to get money to SIC as SIC had no tax exemption. Thus, CHIPS/FPS was able to obtain money funded to Center for Community Change, through Student Information Center.

The members, Highschool Underground Presses, numbered about 150 at that time. There has been a period of quiet, but in June, 1971 there is information to suggest a renewed effort by CHIPS to recruit members nation wide. Enclosed is a list of the members and subscribers.

FOIA b 6

Originally, the member in the Pasadena Area was called DOUBLETHINK at 3365 Grayburn, Pasa. (Chapman Woods County). This address belongs to Margery Cream, a liberal attorney. No issues of Doublethink have been seen and it is believed that the publication never got off the ground.

The new CHIPS list indicates the Pasadena area member is KNIGHTS BANANA and gives PO Box 1104 Pasa. This box belongs to Kenneth Charles Jackson 11830 Deana #4 El Monte. 579-0976. Dr. Lic. [REDACTED] Authorized to receive mail are: HEADLINES PRESS (this is another name listed for Knight's Banana), Jack Nelson, (UNK), & Clearlight, a publishing house for the Peace Action Council.

Jackson is reportedly active in PAC and other movements.

Information from your files concerning Jackson and other persons mentioned would be appreciated.

J. Gardner

*Gary Campbell & Ken Jackson are active in Peace Action Council.
Red Sun Tribe appears to be a San Gabriel Valley faction headed by these individuals.*

(The following article is published for informational purposes. Please remember that it is illegal to make phony credit card calls, and we certainly do not suggest that you make any.)

(FPS) The new telephone credit card system (for 1972) has been revealed in the Berkeley Tribune. Here's how it works:

A telephone credit card number consists of three parts. The first seven digits represent a phone number. After that come three digits indicating what area of the country the phone number and credit card are from. Finally comes a code letter. This letter varies according to what the fourth digit in the phone number is, according to the following code:

1 - Z	6 - H
2 - J	7 - U
3 - Q	8 - M
4 - S	9 - A
5 - D	0 - X

Thus, one valid number would be:

489-1234 016 Z

since the letter Z corresponds to the 1 in the phone number.

So, to make up a phony credit card number, first pick a city that you know the code for. 035 is the code for Atlanta, 167 for Berkeley, 158 for San Francisco, 032 for Washington DC, 182 for Los Angeles, and 103 is the code for New Mexico. Then call directory information for that city or area, and get the phone number for some pig business or bank. Find out what letter corresponds to the fourth digit in that phone number, and you've got it. The phone number comes first, then the 3 digit city code (this is not the same thing as an area code), then the letter. That's it! Other examples of numbers that would be valid are:

242-4876 035 S

664-3927 167 Q

When making calls, remember the following points:

1. Call only from pay phones, and keep changing the phone that you use, the time that you call, and the number that you use.

2. Be certain that the person you call is cool and won't tell the phone company who it was that called. Sometimes the phone company will call the person you called and say "We seem to have a mistake in our billing. Could you tell us who might have called you from City?" They should not be told anything.

3. When you're making the calls, try to sound like an average Mr. Pig Businessman or Mr. Pig Businessman's secretary. There should be no uncertainty in your voice -- it should sound like you have the number memorized. And don't say "dash" between parts of the number, if anything just pause briefly.

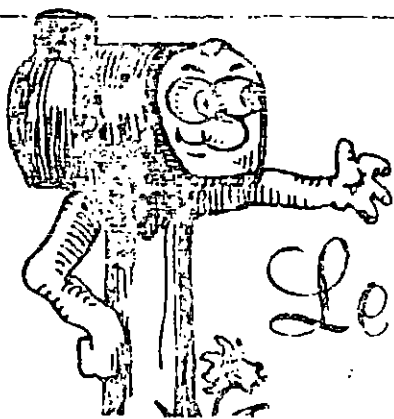

4. If an operator hassles you, just hang up and try over. You're bound to get a different operator.

CONFERENCE

Youth Liberation is having a conference on high school organizing. Dates 1-11. Tickets have been sold for the last 10 days.

Michigan-Ohio area, but the conference is not restricted to these people. Anyone can come who can get here.

Some of the topics that will be discussed are: high school women, racism, the legal rights of students and youth, and the high school press. Write for more info now if you're interested.

Letters

Send letters to be printed to Letters Column, FPS, 2007 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48104. We'll print them as much as possible.

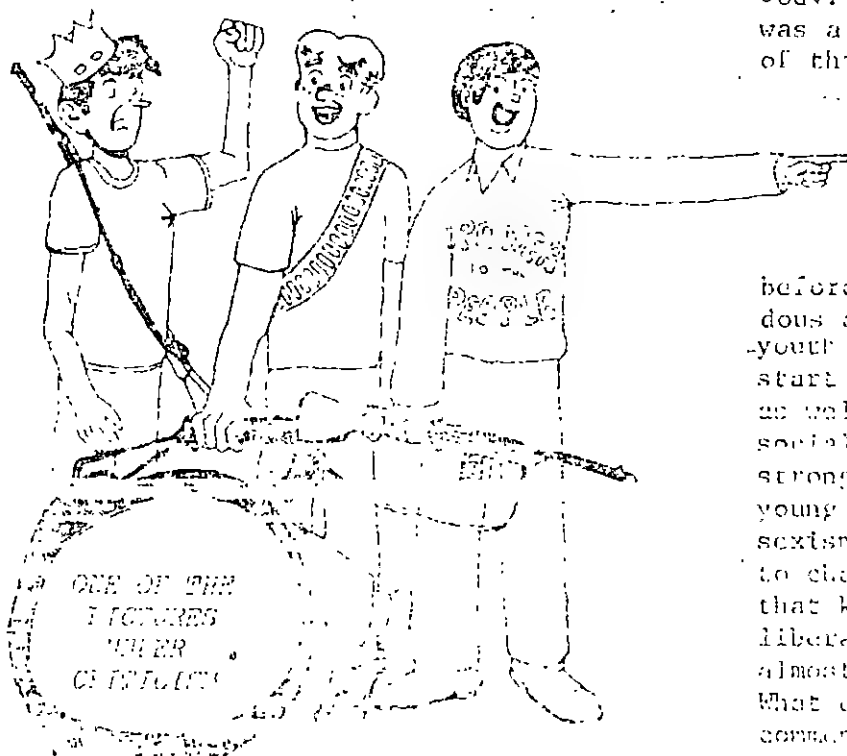

Dear FPS,

In looking at your first fall issue I really got fucked up! It really hurt to see guns in a far out publication like that. Twice! God damn! That hurts.

Freedom, Peace, and Solidarity. Need I say more?

Love & Peace,
D.M.
Hays, Kansas

P.S. "The difference between institutionalized and revolutionary violence is the difference between horseSHIT and bullSHIT." —Joan Baez

Those of us working on FPS believe that the right to self-defense is a basic human freedom. However, a number of people have written with the same objection as is raised in the above letter. Since we expect to continue printing such pictures occasionally, and even have one in this issue, we will try to prepare a longer statement of our feelings to print in a future issue. If anyone else is interested in this issue, please write us and we'll try to print your letter.

Dear Y.L.

I'm writing you because I'm really interested in your experience with adult Gay Liberation groups. My relationships with several of them, especially Baltimore GLF, have been frankly very infuriating! The same adult imperialism (and honestly, this is the only word that can come close to describing their oppressiveness towards younger people) that was condemned theoretically by GLF as being part of straight society, was rampant in gay men too. It was very depressing being called a "Chicken" by older men who wanted your body! It was really dehumanizing and it was a drag! Well, the reason I brought all of this stuff up is that I've been thinkin' about the relationship between Youth Oppression and Gay Liberation (whether real or hopeful) and I think it's imperative for Gay Youth to separate (not just caucus like we've done before) from Gay groups that show a tremendous amount of ageism. This would help the youth to get their heads together and to start to deal with their own oppression, as well. This wouldn't be just another social, non-political Gay Youth, but a strong, powerful, angry group of beautiful young raggots and dykes ready to deal with sexism and ageism...A Gay Youth Revolution to challenge all social and moral chains, that keep us down...to fight for our liberation as gays and youth. Wow! I almost cry with joy at the thought of it! What do you think? I'd really dig your comments on it — please show this letter to any and everyone who you think would be interested.

Dear People in Struggle --

Been trying to get STROBE out again and that's why I haven't been able to return my CHIPS questionnaire yet. Here's a cartoon, though. I hope you can put it to use. At first glance you might think it's about college but read it over -- it's about high school.

TOOLING UP FOR

Whether or not you have read "1984", by George Orwell, it's time to read it again. The people who are running America are heavily into planning the Police State. They will be ready in advance.

America seems to have settled on one method for solving big problems. Big problems need expensive machines. Science and technology will save us. Now America has the biggest problem it has ever faced. People all over the world are recognizing the source of their oppression and rising up in anger. This crisis is calling for fancier machines than ever.

THE ELECTRONIC AUTOMATED BATTLEFIELD

This electronic marvel is well off the drawing board. The "bugs" in it are being worked out through testing in Latin America and Vietnam.

The crucial part of the automated battlefield is a heat sensitive gadget that hangs down from an airplane or helicopter. The heat sensor is so sensitive that it picks up the body heat of individual people on the ground, or the exhaust from internal combustion engines. After the sensor reveals heat, the location of the people and vehicles can be plotted by a computer on a latitude and longitude grid of the area. Then some murderous fool can push a button and send the appropriate kind of missile to the "enemy" location. Nice and clean. The American Way.

While in the jungles of Bolivia Che Guevarra wrote in his diary that he did not understand why the helicopters were always buzzing over his head above the trees. In fact, the American army and C.I.A. had trained a group of Bolivian soldiers to murder Che and then, by using the heat sensor, showed them exactly where he was. Billions currently go into maintaining the electronic battlefields over the jungles of Indochina. General William Westmorland predicts "I see battlefields on which we can destroy anything we can locate through instant communications and almost instantaneous application of highly lethal firepower. With first round kill probabilities approaching certainty, and with surveillance devices that can continually track the enemy, the need for large forces to fix the opposition physically will be less important."

ELECTRONIC TRACKING DEVICES FOR PEOPLE

Another huge problem in America is prisons. The pressure is building. The lid is blowing off. The problem could be reduced if the authorities could let a lot of the convicts out of the jails and back on to the streets, while still making sure that they were no threat to law and order.

Joseph Meyer, a 42 year old computer specialist for the Department of Defense, thinks he might have the answer. In the January issue of "Transactions on Aerospace and Electronic Systems", he proposed attaching miniature electronic tracking devices to Americans as a condition of bail or parole. These "transponders", as he calls them, would monitor the wearer's movements and implement curfew and territorial restrictions. Each wearer would be identified by a code transmitted several times a minute to a computer -- through a network of traneivers that would be deployed around town like police call boxes. The transponders would be inserted in the person so that they could not be removed without the computer knowing. Tampering with them would be a felony.

Meyer estimates that personalized electronic surveillance for one tenth of America would cost about $2 billion per year. In order to keep down the costs for the taxpayers who are behaving properly Meyer believes that the "obvious" way to pay for the transponders is to "lease them to the subscribers at a low cost, say $5 per week". In the case of juveniles it might be necessary to find work for them "so that they could meet the payments, if their families were unable to pay".

ETHNIC WEAPONS

Wars with black or yellow people are another problem that may continue to plague America in the years ahead. It seems likely that the Pentagon would be interested in a weapon that could kill our race and not another. Now it looks like such weapons will eventually become available.

Dr. Carl A. Larson, head of the Department of Human Genetics at the University of Lund in Sweden, predicts that various military powers will soon perfect "ethnic weapons" -- chemical and biological agents which will attack only certain races. He says that scientists have already perfected "selective inhibitors", which will block functions of specific enzymes in the body, but will leave other enzymes unaffected.

Genetic differences between races are usually reflected by the variations between vital enzymes or by the absence of certain enzymes. Scientists have found that people of different races have minor gene differences which produce different enzymes.

Dr Larson says chemical weapons are "forthcoming" -- possibly they are already being produced -- which would affect or stop enzymes peculiar to one race without affecting peoples of other races. The existence of these weapons would make genocide a particularly attractive form of war.

We have no evidence which will prove that the masters of war in the United States are producing this weapon. In the San Francisco bay area, however, a lot of struggle is focusing on a new facility which is being built for the U.S. Army on the grounds of the Presidio military base. It's called the "Western Medical Institute of Research" and costs $28 million.

There is no proof that these labs are going to be used to perfect and manufacture genocidal weapons. It is a fact however that Institute plans call for large building spaces to be equipped with biological seals, sterilizers, air locks, ultraviolet barriers, and other devices for closing off building areas to permeability by biological agents. Also, the Army states that the purpose of the institute is the investigation of Asian diseases -- particularly those of South-east Asia.

(FPS) Pamela Cross, who is nine years old, recently wrote a letter to President Nixon complaining that she could "smell the change" and suggesting that he do something about it. She received a letter back from the Dept. of Health, Education, and Welfare, suggesting that she "Pay attention to your own learning activities and let the President take care of decisions on national and international affairs."

NEW ORLEANS (FPS) Two students at Warrenton High School have been suspended indefinitely because their mother insulted the principal and refused to publicly apologize. The mother has been critical of the school's policy forbidding girls from wearing slacks. The suspension action was taken under a school board rule allowing children to be suspended or punished if their parents or guardian were "offensive" to a teacher or administrator, unless the parent apologized. The American Civil Liberties Union there has said it will file suit against the school board.

GREAT BRITAIN (CPS/FPS) The National Union of Students of Great Britain has been considering organizing a new and controversial union which will include students under age 15. The motion was proposed by a college age delegate, who said, "We want to involve all school students from the primary to the secondary levels. We mustn't exclude people because they are under 11. This is the sort of thing which headmasters and other reactionary forces in society do."

SEABOROUGH, Ontario (Toronto Alternative Press Group) FPS The board of education recently decided to keep the school in the discriminatory battery of its policy on the basis of a staff report. The staff recommended that the school should be closed as a "pilot project" and Fred Thompson, assistant director of education, said the board was "disciplining in the school."

fewer strappings, and that "students have more respect for teachers and a lot less fear."

WASHINGTON (FPS) *The Census Bureau says the number of young people in the U.S. population increased by 53% in the last decade.

Youth, or that segment of the population between 14 and 24 years of age, grew from 27.1 to 41.6 million, the bureau said Sunday.

In an updated report on characteristics of American youth, the bureau said the increase lowered the median age of the national population to 27.9 years, 1.6 below the 1960 median. But, the Census said, the new figures show that the widely held belief that more than half the population is under 25 is false.

MELBOURNE, Australia (FPS) Three young people convicted of drug offenses have been banned by a court from seeing the rock musical "HAIR" or attending pop festivals for three years.

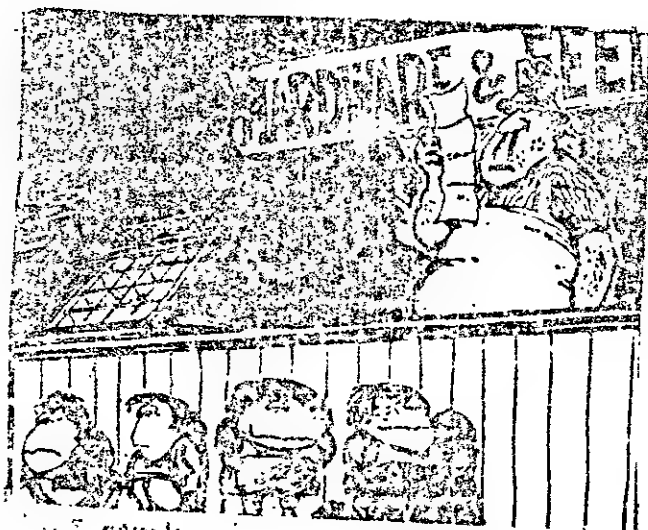

The magistrate who imposed the ban, in lieu of prison, explained yesterday the psychedelic lights of the musical could possibly trigger off an LSD trip.

The three youths -- two of them girls -- were being given the chance to cure themselves without compulsion, he added.

LAWTON, Oklahoma (LNS) Indians in this city of 60,000 have been picketing the School Board building since Jan. 10 to demand the rights of Indian students to wear long hair in school.

Of the three high schools in Lawton, two of them formerly allowed students to wear long hair. But when Indians in the third school began to protest the long hair ban, administrators in the other two schools started to also demand that students cut their hair. After trying to go through legal channels with no results except administrative stalling, the Native American Movement there began the picket. Over 50 high school students walked out of school one day to support the Indians, and later the police arrested 17 picketers who tried to go in the school board building.

Sciri's case was taken to federal court. At the hearing, the judge said her complaint was constitutionally valid. He also noted that those who could afford it could get annulments, thereby legally marrying themselves.

NEWPORT, England (FPS) An "informal inquiry" is to be held at Adams Grammar School in regards to allegations printed in a letter to an underground newspaper. The letter, purporting to come from a group of students, claims that they are subjected to "medieval laws and methods."

SASKATCHEWAN, Canada (TAPS/FPS) One day this fall, a Saskatchewan teacher brought a copy of the Georgia Straight, a Vancouver underground newspaper, to school with her. Some of the Grade 9 students asked to read it, and she let them. Complaints from enraged parents sparked her filing for 'gross misconduct' by the local school board.

The firing went almost unchallenged in the town, but the provincial Department of Education instituted an inquiry into the action. Results have not yet been released. The offence with which the teacher is charged is one usually reserved for an instructor who is a child molester; parents in Mooseman, Saskatchewan, obviously feel that a teacher who exposes their children to 'subversive' ideas is just as dangerous.

(on her trip to Liberia)

When this picture was taken Mary Vecchio was a 14-year-old runaway from her home in Opa-Locka, Florida.

When Mary returned home from Kent State last year, her friend's parents refused to let their kids see her, people in her home town insulted her, the high school principal suspended her, police picked her up four times (none of their charges stood up in court). She was placed on probation by the juvenile court for having run away and had to report to the court every month, she was transferred to a different high school, Claud Kirk, governor of Florida, implied on a TV program that she was part of a communist plot and she received a tremendous amount of hate mail.

In early March, last year, she wanted to go to a rock concert. Her parents said not, but she went anyway and didn't return home. She was picked up by police at a friend's house, taken to court, and on March 11, was committed to the Kendall Youth Home, near Miami, for 6 months for having violated her probation.

Do You Wanna Get Beat Up At Home Or In Prison?

(This is the third in a series of articles about Youth and the Law. It is based on a court suit filed recently by attorney Cabe Kaimowitz.)

DETROIT, Mich. (EPPS) The Wayne County Youth Home is generally used as a short-term jail for young people accused or convicted of having committed crimes. But not everyone in it is there for this reason. Children whose parents have mistreated them are also detained there.

A legal suit has now been filed in an attempt to stop this practice. The suit charges that the living conditions in the home are inhuman -- it is greatly overcrowded, educational, recreational and eating facilities are bad, and there is little communication with the outside. In addition, the ward supervisor and other personnel severely punish anyone who breaks any of a myriad of rules -- speaking without permission; looking out of the windows of the ward; "slowness" in reacting to a supervisor's command; possessing personal belongings or reading material not approved and issued by the staff (all recent issues of magazines or newspapers are prohibited, so is watching the news on TV).

Punishments used on children who violate these rules, according to the suit, include the following:

"isolation" -- any child may be locked up in a small room with only the bare essentials (a bare mattress, no sheets or blankets, a toilet, a window) for periods of up to 3 days. This may be extended indefinitely "with permission" from higher personnel.

2. "tracking" -- a child is forced to stand on a square piece of the linoleum floor without moving, sometimes with her/his arms outstretched, for periods of up to eight hours.

3. "clonking" -- a child is hit severely on the head by the supervisor using her/his keys and/or key chain. This is done constantly, the suit charges, at the whim and fancy of the supervisor.

4. "padding" -- a child (usually a boy) is spanked by the supervisor, using a wooden paddle, and with great force.

Below, we have reprinted an affidavit filed by one of the girls who was kept in the home. As you read it, keep in mind that she has committed no crime; she is being kept there only because her parents mistreated her.

YOUTH AND THE LAW

The Affidavit

DEB -----, being first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

I was held in the Wayne County Youth Home for approximately three months, from sometime in February, 1971, until the summer of 1971. I was held there not for anything I had done or been accused of, but because my parents had allegedly beaten me. Although I am only sixteen I am intelligent and I remember very well what the Youth Home was like and how I felt being there.

2. The girls in the Wayne County Youth Home are divided into units, one for each floor. I was in more than one unit while I was there. The girls in each unit mostly sat together and went to school together. I found out that some of the girls in the Units I was in were there for the same reason I was, but others had committed crimes or had run away. One girl had stabbed and killed someone and others had taken dope. I heard some girls planning break-ins for when they got out, but I tried not to listen. While I was in the Youth Home I tried not to become sneaky or hardened like many of the girls, but it was difficult not to.

3. There were always more girls in the Units I was in than there were beds in the rooms. Nearly all the time I was in the Youth Home I slept on a mattress on the floor in a hall. The light was always on and it was hard to sleep. We ate meals in our Unit's common room; since everyone could not fit at the little tables some of us ate sitting on the floor or on a bed. We ate from metal plates that looked like dog dishes to me and we had only spoons to eat with.

4. There were many things we couldn't do. They made me feel like I was in a prison because I had done something wrong. Some of the rules were that we were never allowed to look out a window and we weren't allowed to keep anything at all of our own -- we couldn't even have a picture of our parents or a handkerchief. In some Units I was in we couldn't have a comb and we were not allowed to come out of our room or leave our mattress at night even to go to the bathroom. We had to wear only the clothes supplied by the Youth Home. There were heavy screens on all the windows and we were always locked in. We never had any free time where we could decide what to do -- we were always told what to do.

5. In the Wayne County Youth Home I felt very lonely. I had been cut off from all my family and friends without warning. In the Youth Home I was never permitted to use the phone. We were allowed to write letters only to our mother, father, or legal guardian. We could write only on Wednesdays and could not keep the pencils or paper for other times. My letters were always read by the women in charge before they were sent. Once I wrote a letter to my father and the head supervisor wouldn't send it. She told me the reason was that she disapproved of what I had written. I thought I was in a bad way.

written about the Youth Home. Whenever other girls I knew wrote about conditions in the Youth Home, their letters did not get sent. The mail we received sometimes had parts scratched out by the supervisors before we got it.

6. Most of the time I was in the Youth Home, the only visitor I was allowed to have was my mother. She was allowed to come only once a week. Finally a few weeks before I got out a nun who taught at my regular school, Sister Jolene, was allowed to see me once a week. Also my parents' student attorneys visited me during the two weeks before they got me out.

FPS #17

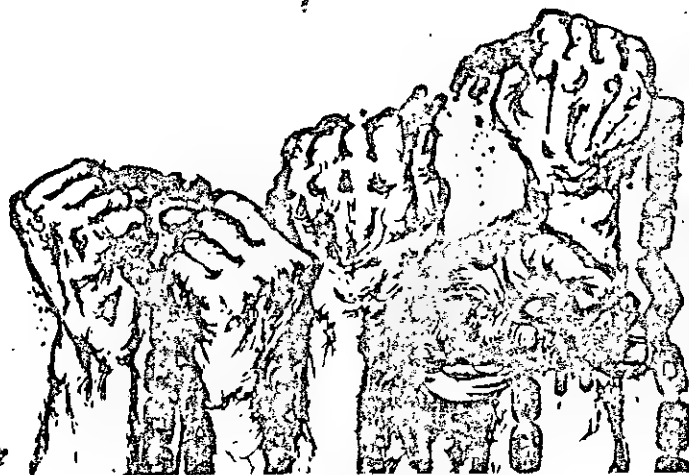

7. Some of the time I was in the Wayne County Youth Home I went to school at the Home. I didn't start school until four weeks after I had been put in the Youth Home. I was supposed to wait two weeks before starting school because everybody does, but I had to wait four weeks. They told me it was because of overcrowding. I had nothing to do while I waited to start school but sit around all day. When I finally went to the Youth Home School I went to class with all the girls in my Unit. They were ages eight to sixteen and we were all in class together. I was in tenth grade before being put in the Youth Home but we used a book at the Youth Home school that I had used in fifth grade in my regular school. I didn't keep up at all with my regular school work. When I went back to my regular school, I was very far behind and had to do extra work every day to try to catch up. I don't know for sure yet, but I might have failed some classes.

8. We were not allowed to go outside unless our supervisor gave permission at the evening sick line. All the time I was in the Youth Home I had a bad rash on my face and head and was always itchy. Only after my parents' attorneys talked to the supervisor a few weeks before I got out did the supervisor let me see the nurse about the rash. The nurse gave me enough cream to put on once and said to come back every night because the harsh soap was causing the rash, but the supervisor never let me go back again. She said I just wanted to see my friends in Unit Three, so I couldn't go. When I had bad cramps and needed a pain pill, I had to show a soiled sanitary pad first for proof before I could go to the nurse. This made me feel embarrassed and like nobody trusted me.

9. In the three months I was in the Youth Home, I was allowed to go outside only twice. Once we went out in gym class for a few minutes. The other time our Unit went out to play baseball. This was the day before I got out. We had no coats to wear and only wore our Youth Home Uniforms and sweaters. When two girls, Robin and Barbara Durr, asked our supervisor why we couldn't go outside more, she said it was too cold to go without coats and we couldn't go out with coats on or we could climb over the wall and escape. Outside the wall we wouldn't be noticed so much with coats on over our Youth Home Uniforms, she said.

10. If we broke any rules we were disciplined by being put alone in one of the discipline rooms. There were four of these rooms on each floor -- they were little rooms with only a bed and sink and toilet and the doors could be kept locked. The supervisor said if we were really bad we would go to the Wayne County jail. I was put in a disciplinary room twice for a few hours. I was very scared at the thought of being put in the room. There was usually someone in a disciplinary room every day. Girls in discipline were kept from going to school. I saw girls kept there three or four days and one girl, Joann, was there for a week. A girl named Wanda, who was ten years old, was locked in a room with no mattress and with the water turned off until she stopped acting wild. She stayed all day like that. She was locked up because she couldn't go to sleep.

11. I think I cried every day that I was in the Youth Home. I usually cried myself to sleep, which I don't normally do. Most nights I had nightmares and woke up crying. I don't usually do that in my own home.

12. I was assigned a Probation Officer named Mrs. Martin. She said to call her my "worker", but I knew she was a Probation Officer. I didn't like it. I kept wondering why I was being kept in the Youth Home and if I hadn't done anything, why did I need a Probation Officer. I felt like I had committed a crime. Mrs. Martin kept trying to convince me of things -- she kept saying "you don't want to go home, do you?" She told me about other homes and schools I could go to, but I don't trust them any more now that I know what the Youth Home is like. There isn't anything. I can think of that anyone could do to me that would ever make me want to go back to the Youth Home or to any other state school or home.

Not Keeping The Faith

Washington (LNS) -- Confidence and public esteem for business had plummeted in the past five years, according to a recent Harris Survey. Back in '66, by an overwhelming 73 to 22 percent, Americans gave business high marks for "offering young people a chance to get ahead."

Now with college graduates a dime a dozen, the public is criticizing business 50 to 40 percent for failing to create opportunities for young people. And that isn't the half of it.

The number of Americans who rated business positively for "bringing better quality products to people" has slipped from 75% in 1966 to 47% in 1971.

Five years ago, business didn't have the greatest reputation in the world for helping to control air and water pollution -- 35% had confidence in the way the job was being done. But today, despite advertisement campaigns proclaiming their commitment to the environment, confidence in business' ecological conscience has slipped to an all time low of 28%.

Has business been a help in "eliminating economic depressions"? 75% of the American public would have said yes in 1966, but with prices rising despite the freeze, and unemployment climbing right behind, only 36% of Americans would now agree that business is helping the country deal with its economic problems.

All across the board business has lost points. 49% of Americans figure business is helping to wipe out racial discrimination in 1971, compared to 58% in 1966. And wiping out poverty? 63% had faith in business in '66, but only 39% now.

An FPS Interview

cooperatives

When you move to replenish your stash of the wonder weed marijuana you want a good weight, low risk, high quality, and a reasonable price. RIGHT?

But alas, this world is rife with contradictions, one of which is that such a pleasureable herb is illegal. This makes the market pretty undependable. Scoring should be a peaceful, rewarding activity but, particularly with younger people, it can get to be a real pain in the ass.

We all know that the answer is "know your dealer". But now a far better idea is popping up all over. People are starting marijuana co-operatives to buy, distribute, and get high with "a little help from their friends". Since we thought the idea might work in many different settings, FPS contacted a member of one local co-operative and made the following interview.

FPS Does your group have a name?

Mr. X. No.

FPS Where did the idea come from?

Mr. X. Most of us live near each other and we know each other. We all smoked a fair amount and none of us had a lot of money. Before we did the co-op we shared contacts and money. Now with the co-op the arrangement we have now just sort of grew up naturally.

FPS How does it work?

Mr. X. Well, there comes a time when we all start running out because we had shared everything. So we decide to go ahead and usually decide to get more when a group of us is smoking together somewhere and then we talk to whoever isn't there to see if they need more. Two of the people who know a lot about scoring then check around for awhile until they find some really good stuff. Because we are steady buyers we can keep a good line on the market.

FPS Do the buyers bring back a sample?

Mr. X. Usually they don't. They know good dope and we've had good luck accepting their judgement.

FPS What happens next?

Mr. X. When somebody gets a price on a pound we can figure out what a share will cost. Since there are 10 of us a share is one tenth. A pound at $150 means 10 shares at $15 a share-- which buys over one and one half weighted ounces. If a certain person has no money we may let someone else get two shares.

We try to break down the pound into shares sometime when we can all be together. We try to have our scale handy but sometimes we just make ten equal piles. This is one of the best parts of the whole thing. It's a good communal-feeling time. Sometimes it is safe enough to roll joints out of the pile and get really high together.

FPS Do you see any advantage to bigger quantities and bigger co-ops.

Mr. X. It's a good idea in theory but the risk shoots up. You see we know each other and are involved with each other's lives almost every day. The people have to have some kind of bond or community with each other or it just wouldn't work. If you think that anybody might try to burn somebody you might as well forget it. That's the whole thing right there. Bigger co-operatives might work if the basic groups were kept small and tight and if having that much dope coming in all at once could be kept quiet.

February 7, 1972

FPS The advantages to co-op members seem clear enough. You don't get burned scoring, the price is better, and quality is high because you have a whole group looking for buy's. Would you add anything to that list?

Mr. X It builds up ties between people. An incredible network exists around grass. Think what a big step forward it will be when this network runs on cooperation instead of hip capitalism.

FPS You must have had some problems. What are they.

Mr. X The biggest problem is when people have to sell some of what they get because they need money. It leads to bad vibes if people are selling the same dope at different prices to the same general community. But we've managed to work that out.

FPS How?

Mr. X First, we try to keep it to one share per person so nobody has a lot to deal. Also, the people who have to sell some are open about it and have agreed not to cover the same market. Actually it has led to a system of self regulation. People try to see to it that they sell the same size lids and this keeps up the size of the lids. We want to keep up the reputation of the group.

FPS Anything else?

Mr. X Well, there is the theoretical problem that the scorers take an extra risk, which we haven't really dealt with yet. Recently we've been keeping the buy's at a very high level of security.

FPS Any advice to others who might want to try your idea?

Mr. X Sure. Carry a scale, trust good friends, power to the imagination, and plant your seeds.

Kid Power!

Slowly surfacing now is the next big thrust for freedom (after Blacks, Women, and Gays) -- the Children's Liberation Movement. Call it Kid Power if you must give it a media-type name. Many children and some adults are tired of children being sold pie in the face this year, or that, tired of teachers and principals dictating what is and isn't appropriate dress, and even tied up with the way children are exploited in advertising.

As columnist Carroll Carroll commented in Variety this spring, children are used as "cute objects" by Mad or Avon, "for sale, apparently to their parents and to the world, to make the world a better place. They are children, not child stars."

Intellectual dignity." So we have a whole string of commercials exploiting freckles, tousled hair, lisps, or lack of two front teeth, cuteness, eagerness -- all exploited and commercialized for the sale of products. Carroll calls for an end to children as Cute Objects, as well as an end to such "denigrating descriptions" as moppet, tot, kiddies, and tykes.

If youngsters are exploited in TV commercials, consider how they're treated by the movie industry which has set up code ratings for movies -- X, R, GP, etc. While these symbols are not law and are only guidelines, they observed throughout the country. And what determines an "X" rating? Murder, gang warfare, blood, horror,

... just nudity. Let the youngsters watch double-feature horror films, three solid hours of torture, and death, but God forbid they should see a nipple on the silver screen, or "the naked female
heaven help us -- two people making love to one another!

In Sweden it's just the opposite; the killings and mayhem may be regarded as unsuitable for children. Only in America.
But "The Vampire Strikes Again" be rated acceptable for children of all ages and
"The Body," an instructive film on the functioning of the human body, rated as X, not to be viewed by anyone under age of 18,
even if accompanied by Parent, Guardian,
or the Family GP.

On his daughter's thirteenth birthday last year, Sydney J. Harris let her air her gripes in his column. "Since we're over 12," she said, "it costs us $2 or more to see a movie -- but though we pay adult prices, we can't see adult films, or even restricted ones without an adult taking us.
We're treated like children, we should be charged children's admission prices."

"And if we go somewhere" she went on,
"and a few of the kids are wearing long hair or hippie outfits, we're all treated like scum. It just doesn't matter how we behave; people get ugly." When she and her friends go to a restaurant or snack shop, they're neglected by the waitress.
We get seated last even though we come in first, and we get waited on last." Columbist Harris feels his daughter has a point, for while young people are lectured at they are seldom listened to.

Underneath all the platitudes about a Democratic society, aren't most American children brought up in an authoritarian culture? Ordered around at home (your average American family, right?), ordered at school, and sometimes for no reason ordered around by other members of society
-- viz: Cop to hand-around gangs: "All you nigger guys, let's break it up here.
Let's move on now."

In a supposed democracy where everyone has the right to life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness, can the State order a child to attend school? In other words, are compulsory attendance laws constitutional? The free school movement is all but obsolete. School is a fact of life. And even parents are leaving the laws which send a child to school under state compulsion. My friends Jim and Barry Nelson with their goat herd up in rural

New England say they can teach their own children enough so that they can learn on their own. Schools just won't be in the picture at all. Keep in mind that Jim and Barry have between them seven years at Middlebury College and you have the lines drawn even finer: your non-college adult obsessed with his children going to college, and your college graduates who are starting to wonder if school -- any school, any grade -- is worthwhile, let alone college.

The coming liberation of children is inevitable because, deep down underneath all the loud protests to the contrary, Americans don't really appreciate their children. Oh, they live vicariously through their children's accomplishments, but seldom through their joy. They send children to school (protesting school taxes), bloat over their marks, their acceptance at college, their budding "careers," but during all those growing-up years how much do the parents groove on childhood joy?

Too often in America, even in well-meaning families, parents can't stand having their children around, can't wait for school vacations to end. Who wants kids around the house all the time with all that noise and commotion? What I'm saying is: Americans pay lip service to childhood.

Of course it will come as a shock to many Americans to discover truths about themselves vis a vis children. Since truth hurts, there will be those inevitable square questions: "Just what do you kids want?" And the answer (dignity, self-respect, basic rights) will be lost in a flurry of self-righteous denials.

But Children's Liberation Movement -- which those double-breasted TV interviewers will probably call "Kids Lib" -- in inevitable. Recent awareness of civil rights by high school students and pressing demands to assert these rights will filter down to the lower age-groups and then the Children's Liberation Movement will be on full force. I can hardly wait.

January 10, 1972
Shreveport, Louisiana

The below information was furnished in connection with New Left activity in the Shreveport, Louisiana area:

Contact with students and associates at Southern University, Louisiana State University (LSU), and Centenary indicates that there is no indication of racial unrest, campus disorder, or student agitation. No Young Socialist Alliance can be determined on campus at these institutions.

Two new underground newspapers are being prepared in the area. One is known as "Joint Effort" and is being operated out of rooms 202 and 204 of the Ward Building, corner of Marshall and Milam Streets, Shreveport, Louisiana. The two individuals running the paper have been identified as ~~JON VORHEES~~ and ALAN RITCHIE, both white males, 20-22 years of age. RITCHIE is the son of assistant Caddo Parish District Attorney JOHN RITCHIE. The proposed publication subscribes to Cooperative Highskool Independent Press Syndicate, Washington, D.C., and also "FPS," (OBSCENE the Public School System) 2007 Washtenaw Avenue, Ann Arbor, Michigan. The financial backing for this paper has not been determined but it is suspected that Dr. LOUIS PENDLETON, Negro dentist and HENRY C. WALKER, white attorney, are involved. The group receives mail at Post Office Box 667, Shreveport, Louisiana. The box was rented by DANA WICKS, white male and the phone number listed is 746-3860, which is subscribed to by VORHEES. "FPS" has sent the most recent articles to Hi Bird Free Press and has requested them to send fifty copies of each publication to them on an exchange basis. (These articles have been obtained and have been filed in the exhibit section of the file on Hi Bird Free Press.)

The equipment owned by JAMES N. BARKE in printing the defunct underground newspaper, "The Other Voice," has been purchased by two individuals, RILEY DAN DRIVER and JOHN EDDIE JOHNSON. The following has been determined regarding these individuals:

FOIA b1 6

DRIVER is printing an underground newspaper and that his political views are extreme left. Informant stated that DRIVER and JOHN EDDIE JOHNSON of 6202 Canal Street, Shreveport, Louisiana, have purchased the equipment from another underground newspaper, "The Other Voice," and that the equipment is stored in Mr. JOHNSON's garage at 6202 Canal Street. The title of the December, 1971, issued of subject's newspaper was "84." Informant states that over 200 copies were passed out at the Shreveport Times between the 20th and 27th of December, 1971. DRIVER is employed at the Newspaper Production Company as a type setter, (non-union).

DRIVER married Miss SHARON ANDERSON, a former employee at the Barksdale Air Force Base Credit Union, now employed at the Commercial National Bank of Shreveport. DRIVER's former employment in the local area consisted of 2nd Airborne Missile Maintenance Squadron, Barksdale Air Force Base, discharged 30th October, 1970; following that the Kon Tiki Restaurant at 5815 Youree Drive, Shreveport, and the present time the Newspaper Production Company. His former address is 1810 Pat Circle.

DRIVER lives in a garage apartment at 1329 $\frac{1}{2}$ Wilkerson Street in Shreveport. His automobile is a 1962 yellow Dodge, license number 1806632 (1971-72)

The two days that DRIVER's residence was checked by source, a red Triumph, license number 72 X 518, was also at his residence. (This vehicle is registered to STANLEY D. STOKES, 4611 Voss Drive, Bossier City, one of DRIVER's former addresses.)

RE: JOHN EDDIE JOHNSON
6202 Canal Street
Shreveport, Louisiana

FOIA b, 6)

JOHN EDDIE JOHNSON, 6202 Canal Street, white male, was born [REDACTED] and has been an employee of the Newspaper Production Company for approximately one year.

Source advised that JOHNSON is a co-owner of equipment purchased by him and DAN DRIVER from the owner of "The Other Voice" which is now defunct. This equipment is stored in the garage of JOHNSON's residence at 6202 Canal Street.

JOHNSON is married, has one child approximately 14 months old. His wife's name is DEBRA. He attended Woodlawn High School from September, 1965, until May, 1969, and is a graduate. He is considered an average student.

JOHNSON drives a yellow 1970 Volkswagen, license number 169 G 693 (1970-71).

His previous employment follows:

He was previously employed by his father as a brick mason's helper. His father, JOHN EDWARD JOHNSON, is a brick mason residing at 1824 Ridgecrest Drive in Shreveport. At the present, he is working at Houston, Texas.

Two co-workers of JOHNSON at the Newspaper Production Company were interviewed by the Shreveport Police concerning JOHNSON's activities.

Source states that JOHNSON has published two newspapers; one in November and one in December and that the views expressed in the paper were of a socialist and communistic nature. He also states that the Y.A.F. (Young American for Freedom) contributed to his financial support of the aforementioned newspaper. Source stated that while at his place of employment, he continually degrades the democratic view of government and advocates socialistic and communistic views, and has in his locker at his place of employment, several books and documents that he discusses during coffee breaks and slack period times while working.

Source states that if personnel does not agree with him, he becomes highly emotional and provokes arguments with his co-workers. Source states that at the present, they are selling advertisements to be placed in the newspaper to help pay for the printing fees. The printing is to be done at The Minden Press in Minden, Louisiana, sometime between the 7th and 14th of February, 1972.

Source stated that on the night of February 2, 1972, JOHNSON and DRIVER stated that the Y.A.F. had made the statement that if they did not sell $500 in advertisement that they would not contribute to their financial support in printing the paper. JOHNSON also stated that he had students in three high schools, Centenary College, and LSU, Shreveport, that were going to sell these papers for 25¢ per copy.

Source stated that JOHNSON made the statement on February 2, 1972, that DRIVER would be in jail after the newspaper hit the streets because he had written a long article about Commissioner D'ARTOIS accusing him of communistic activities in the local community. Source stated that he only knew of one company in Shreveport that had purchased advertisement and that company was Tape City on Kings Highway.

Source, through contacts and associates, advises that there is no indication of student unrest, campus disorder, or racial tension on the campuses of Louisiana State University, Shreveport, Southern University, Shreveport, and Centenary College at Shreveport, Louisiana.

Source had previously been provided with information concerning HENRY WINSTON, Communist Party National Chairman, and the possible recruitment of white southerners to that organization. Source, through contacts and associates, advises that there is no indication that any individual has been in the Shreveport, Louisiana area with the intent of forming a Southern Regional Council of the Communist Party, USA (CPUSA).

Source has determined that the Hi Bird Free Press has published one issue of the underground newspaper "Catch-84 - The Libertarian Press."

The following individuals have been identified as being principals involved in the publication of this paper:

RILEY DAN DRIVER;

JOHN EDDIE JOHNSON;

DAVID TEREAU;

SUZY (LAST NAME UNKNOWN) - who writes under the pen name SUZY "SLUT";

JEFF DALE;

JIM DAVIS;

JON VORHEES.

In meeting with the above individuals, it is apparent that the newspaper's goal is to attack in print the faculty in the area colleges and high schools. The principals maintain that they have recruited numerous individuals on the high school and college level who will assist them in distributing and selling the newspaper when it goes to press on a regular basis.

DRIVER and JOHNSON claim association with the Young Americans for Freedom, and they utilize Post Office Box 4160, Shreveport, Louisiana. DRIVER appears to have complete contempt for all authority, especially on the educational and military level, and he preaches individualism and complete freedom of thought and action by all persons in any field they endeavor.

In meeting with the above principals, it appears that the main obstacle in getting the newspaper to press is the lack of funds available because of the poor response to various businessmen for ads in the paper.

The printing machine for the paper continues to be stored at JOHNSON's residence, and there is no indication at this time when the next issue of the newspaper will be published.

Source advises that the literature maintained by the principals is ultra-right, mostly consisting of articles called "Creative Politics," which is a Young Americans for Freedom publication. Also observed in possession of the principals is numerous anti-Vietnam War literature, among them the "Vietnam Courier," "South Vietnam Struggle," and "Red Balloon," all of the foregoing by a very anti-American in contempt and pro-Vietnamese.

Source remains in contact with the principals, and he remains in a position to obtain continuous positive information regarding the newspaper and the intent of the individuals involved to "attack" the various faculty members at area high schools and colleges.

Freedom or Force

There are two opposing ideological elements of the youth movement. One is Libertarian and the other is socialist.

The primary principle of libertarianism is that no person or group of people (such as a government) has the right to initiate the use or threat of physical force, and that the only moral means of dealing with another is by his voluntary consent. It should be obvious that the acceptance of this premise is essential to a free and peaceful society.

Why then do the Marxists and other brands of socialists claim to be defenders of freedom and peace? And what is worse, why are they able to fool so many youths with otherwise libertarian tendencies? It is because of their evasion of what it means to coerce someone.

A person's rights can be violated only by the use or threat of physical force. When one forces another to do something, he is compelling him to act against the judgment of his mind, or else force would not be required. Because man is a potentially rational being whose proper survival depends on his choice to think and remain loyal to his judgment, to force a man is to require him to act in contradiction to his nature. Which means, to violate his RIGHT to life. This cannot be the basis for a free and peaceful society. Only destruction can result.

That is why any form of collectivism... communism, socialism, fascism, nazism, welfare statism, or state capitalism... is backward and reactionary. All of them advocate, explicitly or implicitly, the use of physical force for some specific purpose they feel is worthy.

For example, most people today realize the evil of fascism. But many look at socialism as something quite different, as some noble ideal. The fact is, the only difference between fascism and socialism is that socialism is more honest.

Fascism retains a semblance of private property even though the state exercises complete control over how it is used (which means, how people live their lives). Socialism exercises the same control, but doesn't bother with the facade of private ownership. As I said, it is more honest, but not better.

After this minor difference, socialism proceeds along the same path as fascism. All human action... economic or otherwise... is directed by a central planner. (Of course, one is for the "good" of the working class, the other for the race or whatever.)

But what happens when an individual (that is what societies are made of) disagrees with the planner, and starts to live the way he wants and keep what he produces or earns in voluntary trade? Are his rights recognized? Or is he sent to a concentration camp, or beat into submission, or killed?

It is obvious which the socialist chooses. It is the latter. For if he chose the former, he would be an advocate of voluntarism or libertarianism. Under this system (or more appropriate non-system) people would be free to set up a kibbutz or a commune or a corporation or any other institution... but they could not FORCE others to live their way. The only way they could influence others would be by persuasion or the refusal to deal with them.

As long as the socialist believes that the majority has the right to violate the rights of the minority, he is no different than his ideological brother, the fascist. The issue is NOT force for this reason versus force for that reason. THE ISSUE IS FREEDOM VS. FORCE. Fascism and socialism are not opposites... they are only two sides of the same irrational coin.

What motivates people to advocate a system of institutionalized force? It is true that many are duped idealists, but how many envision themselves as the omnipotent central planner or Führer?

By the way, how is this planner to be chosen? Will it be someone who believes he has superior ability or some mystical source of knowledge which is inaccessible to everyone else? Plato was first to expound this nonsense in THE REPUBLIC. Hitler concretized the idea.

Or is the planner to be elected? If the socialist believes that the people can choose this all-wise man or group, why doesn't he think that these same people, individually, are capable of running their own lives? It is certainly simpler to run one's own life than to attempt to run everyone else's at the same time. This question has never been answered.

Let the socialist continue to advocate what he does. But the youth who have seen through so much of the hypocrisy of American welfare statism and state capitalism should be able to realize that he is not advocating a noble ideal. He is propounding the most brutal and reactionary doctrine possible... collectivism.

Those who desire to be defenders of peace and liberty must renounce any initiation of force and uphold man's rights. They must respect EVERY person's right to deal or abstain from dealing with whomever he chooses. In a word, they must advocate LIBERTARIANISM.

From the Pond

By

David

Therseau

For the greater part of this century, government has been unrelentless in its continual encroachment into the lives of individuals. Today, we witness the omnipotent state expanding its control at an unprecedented rate. No longer is government viewed as the protector of each individual's right; to life, liberty, and property, but rather as some divine power to cleanse our bodies and souls through further legislation, taxes, and regulation.

We are daily pressured to cast ourselves before this god and be satisfied in the knowledge that the resulting statism is for the "Common Good" as seen by some elite.

But, the cries of Individualism are once again being raised as they have throughout history in times of oppression. Such is true with the formation of the Shreveport Young Americans for Freedom. We in Y.A.F. are working toward the Individualist Society.

With the first issue of catch "84," we will be extending our communication to those individuals concerned over the crisis in freedom. We are the pursuers of Laissez-Faire, the free market.

We believe each individual has the right to pursue his own destiny as long as he refrains from the use of force or fraud on others. Not until government is reduced to the level necessary to protect this right will we be satisfied.

LINDA EVANS
(FREESPIRIT)

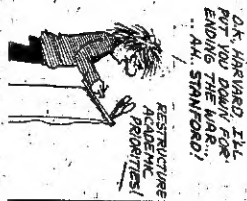

Cultural notes intoned at a recent University of Wisconsin anti-war managorio; by an idealistic and knowledgeable member of the new left's fairer sex who is presently charged with bombings in California, Chicago and New York:

I'm going to jail tomorrow so it's really, uh, you know. So you see and uh, and uh, a month and a half of freedom. I didn't know I was supposed to talk about our culture. I didn't know, uh, how I would label it but, uh...Psychedelic patterns in my head and, uh...There's really a lot to say and, uh, I'm just getting these vibrations of real power from us, you know, that we really, really are brothers and sisters and we need to understand to get together how much we...We have to make that count in the struggle that is happening and that's going to happen in the years to come because whatever evolves from the last year.

I had three of my friends blown up...Our culture and our people isolated from everybody for ten months...Our culture and our people.

I'd like to speak to you a little bit about culture right now and about the way we are getting into, each other, and getting into real relationships and stuff—building families and building tribes that can fight together. We seem a lot to be really troubled at this point probably because...and partly because I think people are responding to the repression in real scared ways. There are lots of indictments out, a lot of us are facing time in jail. Really heavy s---, you know. People all over the country, black people, brown people, us...So we're digging into each other a whole lot. Getting closer. Trying to decide what we are going to do. But in some ways we've forgotten our responsibilities.

The destruction of the earth is really what's happening, you know, we have a lot of responsibilities as white people in the f---g belly of the monster, to try and stop them in every way possible. And I think that we have to deepen our culture and deepen our understanding of who we are to be not just songs and music and dancing and dope and loving each other, but also build a different culture of struggle on every level. (For this graceful hybridization of Karl Marx, Harpo Marx, Leary, Freud, Reich and Kipling we are indebted to the Jack Andersons at the University of Wisconsin's Badger Herald.)

All you people out there, we need you!! For what, you say?? Well, we need writers, artists, distributors, etc; people to buy advertising and people to sell advertising to those whom we can con into buying.

Free Speech for Everyone Who Agrees

United Press International STANFORD, Calif.—Some demonstrators at Stanford University believe in free speech—providing the speaker supports their philosophy.

After several scheduled speakers finished at a noon rally, it was announced there would be an "open mike" for anyone to have his say.

Dave Bray, a 29-year-old salesman, took the microphone and explained he was a Vietnam veteran and had served in Cambodia.

Two students shouting obscenities rushed to the mike, wrestled it from Bray and threw it to the concrete. Bray walked calmly away.

One of the men who had jerked the mike from Bray's hand explained that when they opened up a "free mike" they meant it was "for constructive, creative ideas on ending the war."

"It was not freedom for the enemy to speak," explained the demonstrator, who refused to give his name.

the individualist

He always wanted to explain things
But no one cared:
So, he drew.
Sometimes he would draw, and it wasn't anything.
He wanted to carve it in stone and write it in the sky.
He would lie out in the grass and look up in the sky:
And it would be only him and the sky and the things inside him that needed saying.
And it would be a beautiful picture:
He kept it under his pillow and would let no
one see it.
And he would look at it every night and think about it.
And, when it was dark and his eyes were closed, he would still see it.

And it was all of him.
And he loved it.
When he started school he brought it with him.
Not to show anyone, but just to have it with him, like a friend.
It was funny about school.
He sat in a square, brown desk.
Like all the other brown desks.
And he thought it should be red.
And his room was a square brown room.
Like all the other rooms.
And it was tight and close
And stiff.

He hated to hold the pencil and chalk
With his arm stiff and his feet flat on the floor
Stiff.
With his teacher watching and watching.
The teacher came and spoke to him.
She told him to wear a tie, like all the other boys.
He said he didn't like them.
And she said it didn't matter!
After that they drew.
And he drew all yellow . . . and it was the way
he felt about morning.
And it was beautiful!
The teacher came and smiled at him.
"What's this?" she said. "Why don't you draw something like Ken's drawing?" Isn't it beautiful?"

After that his mother bought him a tie.
And he always drew airplanes and rocket ships,
like everyone else.
And he threw the old picture away.
And then he lay along looking at the sky.
It was big and blue and all of everything.
But he wasn't any more.
He was square inside . . .
And brown
And his hands were stiff.
And he was like everyone else.
And the things inside him that needed saying didn't need it anymore.
It had stopped pushing.
It was crushed.
Stiff.
Like everything else.
And soon he died.

Here is the true story of...

Tshombe

A biography by
ANTHONY BOUSCAREN, PH.D.

Somewhere in an Algerian jail sits Moise Tshombe. Politically he is an exile. Legally he is slated for extradition. Morally he is a thorn in the conscience of the West. Who is this man? What crimes has he committed that he should stand before a firing squad? What is the story behind the man?

Dr. Bouscaren has written a dispassionate biography that gives the reader the information he needs to understand what is happening in the Congo today. He provides the history and background of the man Tshombe, so that the reader can judge for himself just who might have a stake in Tshombe's death and why.

The Sharon Statement

"Adopted in Conference at Sharon, Connecticut, September 9-11, 1960."

IN THIS TIME of moral and political crisis, it is the responsibility of the youth of America to affirm certain eternal truths.

WE, as young conservatives, believe:

THAT foremost among the transcendent values is the individual's use of his God-given free will, whence derives his right to be free from the restrictions of arbitrary force;

THAT liberty is indivisible, and that political freedom cannot long exist without economic freedom;

THAT the purposes of government are to protect these freedoms through the preservation of internal order, the provision of national defense, and the administration of justice;

THAT when government ventures beyond these rightful functions, it accumulates power which tends to diminish order and liberty;

THAT the Constitution of the United States is the best arrangement yet devised for empowering government to fulfill its proper role, while restraining it from the concentration and abuse of power;

THAT the genius of the Constitution—the division of powers—is summed up in the clause which reserves primacy to the several states, or to the people, in those spheres not specifically delegated to the Federal Government;

THAT the market economy, allocating resources by the free play of supply and demand, is the single economic system compatible with the requirements of personal freedom and constitutional government, and that it is at the same time the most productive supplier of human needs;

THAT when government interferes with the work of the market economy, it tends to reduce the moral and physical strength of the nation; that when it takes from one man to bestow on another, it diminishes the incentive of the first, the integrity of the second, and the moral autonomy of both;

THAT we will be free only so long as the national sovereignty of the United States is secure; that history shows periods of freedom are rare, and can exist only when free citizens concertedly defend their rights against all enemies;

THAT the forces of international Communism are, at present, the greatest single threat to these liberties;

THAT the United States should stress victory over, rather than coexistence with, this menace; and

THAT American foreign policy must be judged by this criterion: does it serve the just interests of the United States?
